TT HAS well been commented that after all is said and done, and in the last analysis. it is the people who live in a community that make it. They are the living, breathing spirit Their influence directs and actuates all that is

There is no gainsaying otherwise.

Men and women who live in a place make it what it is. And the more citizens of the better type, citizens who work everward in the upward trend, construct and contribute to the success and happiness of others are those who are exemplary in their every day lives are not only the contributing forces but the essentials for a better place to live in.

Men, who by their practice of the virtues for a better and wholesome life in their every day endeavors are those who count and their value cannot be overestimated.

Bay St. Louis, and Hancock county lost such citizen last week in the death of Charles Joseph Mitchell, vice president of the Hancock Bank, who passed on unexpectedly and at the comparatively young age of 50 years. Such men are in the prime of their usefulness at that age and as well in later years. They have profited by a useful life and the lamp of experience has lighted their way that their vision becomes clearer and their wisdom becomes golden with the passing of time.

Charles Michell was an influence in the community. Born in Hancock county he was reared within its confines, educated at St. Stanislaus College. He soon took his place in life. Leaving school he became an attachee of the local executive office of the Louisville & Nashville R. R. Co., in clerical capacity. It was not long that his services were recognized and with the consent of the railroad company, he was taken over to the bank where he has ever since remained. From clerical capacity he soon rose, as his ability justified, and until his V/E like to see new, shiny automobiles on our death he was vice president. Surely a deserved

T WAS with keen regret The Echo some two or three weeks ago ago by force of the truthfulness of the sannouncement, announced that the Rev. Leo F Fahey, assistant priest at the church of Our Lady of the Gulf, was to leave here and go elsewhere. Such announcement carried a tinge of sorrow. A Bay St. Louis native known and beloved by all, he has certainly won a warm place in the hearts of all who know him and it is with a feeling akin to sorrow that we see him leave.

Modest, eschewing the plaudits of his fellow men, and strictly walking in the footsteps of his Master. Father Fahey refused to allow his fellow citizens to give him a farewell reception; banquet or whatever form they wished to show? h m favor and to mark his going away. A kind & of farewell party, However, Monday night, at the Knights of Father Fahey has been here fifteen years, since the time of his ordination as a priest. He said his first mass in the chapel-of St. Joseph Academy. Serving him on that occasion as "altar boys" were two of his closest personal friends, A. G. Favre and Arthur A. Scafide. His farewell mass was said at the convent few mornings ago and it was fitting that the sons of Mr. Favre and Mr. Scafide should serve him in same capacity as their respective fathers on the occasion of the initial mass.
